

Paper accepted in Nature Communications

Last Updated Thursday, 30 July 2015

A paper on the vibrational density of states at the surface of amorphous materials has just been accepted in Nature Communications. The research combines experimental (Inelastic X-ray Scattering) and numerical (ab initio molecular orbitals calculations) efforts and has been conducted in collaboration with research teams from Austria, Greece and France.